

NAVY WAKES TO PROTECT BOSTON RIOTS

MINORITY REPORTS ON TREATY

REJECTION OR AMENDMENTS OFFERED BY MAJORITY ARE ANSWERED.

MEAN SACRIFICE OF CONCESSIONS

Denies Claim That Peace Conference Has Power To Summon Germany.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 11.—Rejection of the peace treaty by the nations covenant, or adoption of amendments would mean sacrifice by the United States of all concessions obtained from Germany under the dictated peace, minority members of the foreign relations committee declared in a report presented today to the senate.

The report, prepared by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, urged speedy ratification of the treaty without amendments or reservations.

Senator Shields, democrat, Tennessee, did not sign the report, having announced that he favored the nations covenant, and the nations covenant, prepared by Chairman Lodge, those signing in addition to Senator Hitchcock were Senators Williams, Mississippi; Swanson, Virginia; Pomeroy, Ohio; Smith, Arizona; and Pittman, Nevada, all democrats.

The minority denied the claim put forward in Chairman Lodge's report that the peace conference still was in session and his power to bring German representatives to Paris.

"If an amended treaty is not signed by Germany," the report added, "the nation of its parts are binding on her."

The minority urged that the work of the peace conference be confirmed by ratification of the treaty described as the best hope of the world, even if like all instruments of peace, it be not divinely perfect in every detail.

The report contended that the industrial world was in ferment, the nations were at the gates of commerce, and that the nations were at the gates of commerce, and that the nations were at the gates of commerce.

Condemns Recommendations.
"Referring to the action of the majority of the committee," said the report, "we unite in opposing and condemning the recommendations both as to textual amendments and as to proposed reservations. None of them could by any possibility be accepted by even the great nations associated with the United States in the war and none of them could by any possibility be dictated to Germany."

Concessions Sacrificed.
"To adopt an amendment or to reject the peace treaty means that the United States will sacrifice the concessions secured from Germany by a dictate of peace. Among the concessions which the United States would sacrifice may be included the following:

"Germany's acknowledgment of responsibility for the war and her obligation to pay the cost of damages resulting from it.

"Germany's promise that she would not impose higher or other customs duties or charges on our goods than those charged to the most favored nation.

"Germany's promise that she will maintain no discriminatory duties on shipping bearing our flag that our shipping in German waters will be given as favorable treatment as German shipping.

"That for six months after the treaty goes into effect no customs duty will be levied against imports from Germany, and that the lowest duties that were in force for the first six months of 1914.

Treaties to be Revived.
"The United States shall have the privilege of reviving such of the treaties with Germany as were in existence prior to the war as we alone may desire.

"Germany's promise to restore the property of our citizens seized in Germany, or to compensate the owners.

"Germany's agreement validating all acts by the United States and by the United States citizens which were necessary for the prosecution of the war, and which we seized and liquidated $300,000,000 worth of property in the United States belonging to Germany.

"Germany's agreement that the proceeds of the sale of these properties may be used to compensate our citizens in Germany for the loss of property, or to pay debts which Germany or Germans owe to American citizens, or to pay American property claims against Germany.

"Germany's agreement that she will compensate her own citizens for property, patents and other things belonging to them in the United States seized during the war by our government, or by payment of our government, or by rights in industrial, literary, or artistic property including patents.

"Germany's agreement that the United States shall retain over 500,000 tons of German shipping seized in American ports.

"Germany's agreement that she will restore to our membership on the reparations commission.

Sailor, Handcuffed To Bicycle, Here on Cross-Country Trip

Tanned and toughened by months of riding over roads of every description, Tony Pizzo, discharged sailor, left Janesville on a bicycle for Madison today on another lap of his long and tedious journey from Los Angeles, Calif., to New York City. Young Pizzo arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Lake Geneva to where he had ridden the day before from Chicago. He rode the last 15 miles into Janesville on a flat tire, he is making the entire trip handcuffed to his bicycle.

Pizzo left Los Angeles, May 13, together with C. J. Devine, another discharged sailor, on their coast-to-coast trip to demonstrate the endurance of enlisted men in the navy. Handcuffs were sealed on both of them at the Chicago, Vanice Beach, Calif., by Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, movie star.

Crossed Desert.
They crossed the great American desert and were at one time in a serious plight from thirst when help finally reached them. Devine was buried when struck by a speeding automobile in Hutchinson, Kansas, and was forced to abandon the trip. He is still in a hospital there.

The cyclist tells a number of interesting stories of his journey. He said he was fired at several times by village constables, who, seeing the handcuffs, thought he was a fleeing prisoner. At Dodge City, Kansas, he excited the populace by going swimming with his bicycle, while in another western city he stripped the bicycle down to the frame and attended a dance, winning a $10 prize waltz.

Thinks Letter to Wilson.
He bears letters from the governor of California to President Wilson, from the mayor of Los Angeles to Mayor John Hylan, New York, and from Sidney Graman, prominent California theatrical man, to Adolph Zukor and David Llewellyn.

His cyclometer registered 3,706 miles before leaving Janesville today. He is making numerous side-trips to cities instead of taking a direct coast-to-coast route. From Madison, which he expected to reach today, he will go to Milwaukee, Chicago, Denver, Buffalo, Washington and New York.

Employee Receives More Pay Than His "Boss"

Finnegan, whose annual salary is $2,500, is outbid by Hickey by $1,000 a year, or a 48-hour week, but gets Sunday overtime, which makes the difference.

Hickey has the better of Finnegan in another regard. He gets his house rent free and a week's vacation in the summer with pay. Another fact about Mr. Hickey's pay is that he is the lowest paid city employee in the state for a water department resident engineer.

TOKIO WAITS ACTION BY U. S. SENATE

DEVELOPMENTS IN SHANTUNG QUESTION OF SUPREME INTEREST.

PACIFIC FLEET IMPRESSES JAPAN

Wave of Elation in Future Greatness Is Sweeping Over Empire.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tokio, Tuesday, Sept. 9.—Developments in relation to the Shantung question for the supreme subject of discussion here. The general attitude of the Japanese is to await calmly the final action by the United States senate.

Some of the members of the diet are reported to be addressing anxious inquiries to the government regarding the situation. They ask whether the United States is likely to enforce by arms a possible new treaty with Germany returning Shantung directly to China. Those who have addressed the inquiries to the government are said to be profoundly impressed by the assignment of half the United States navy to the Pacific.

Strive to Expand in Asia.
The Japanese are striving to expand the nation's interest in Asia. Premier Hara, speaking yesterday at a luncheon in honor of former Premier Saionji, head of the Japanese peace delegation at Paris, said:

"Japan's prestige has been greatly enhanced by the peace conference. The nation should realize and be thankful for the fact that all Japan's proposals were favorably received with the exception of the one relating to racial equality."

Confident of Future

A wave of elation and confidence in Japan's future greatness seems to be sweeping over the empire. In a recent address, Ikuko Ooka, president of the house of representatives, said:

"World leadership is now in America, but it is bound later to be transferred to Japan."

Japan's Shantung is concerned, officials stand the view that they have "gone the limit in magnanimity" and whatever happens will "eventually redound to the program of restoration of the province to China."

MONTANA HEARS PLEA BY WILSON

LONG HAND IN WORLD AFFAIRS THREATENS IF TRI-UNITY FAILS.

THIS TREATY OR NONE, HE SAYS

Declares It Is First International Settlement Based On Happiness Of People.

Billings, Mont., Sept. 11.—Laying his appeal for the peace treaty before the people of Montana today, President Wilson declared the question of its ratification was a question whether the United States would fulfill its pledges to its people and to the world.

There were two addresses on the day's program, Mr. Wilson speaking at the Billings auditorium before noon so that he could reach Helena in "this settlement" at night.

Mayor W. Lee Mains, introducing the president, said that where a man went across the sea and did the people's work of the world, he was some man. "Yells from the crowd were more cheers when the mayor's little daughter, Jillian, presented a bouquet to Mrs. Wilson."

"Consults" With People

Mr. Wilson said he had come west "to consult" with the people in the light of circumstances which affected the whole world.

It was a mistake the president continued to debate the peace treaty as if it were an ordinary treaty. It was not merely a treaty with Germany, he said, but a treaty effecting a settlement of the affairs of the world.

"And is it this treaty or no treaty," he added, "it is this treaty because there can be no other."

Wilson said the first international settlement that is based on the happiness of the average people throughout the world. It is a people's treaty, he said, and the prediction that it is not wise for parliament and congresses to attempt to alter it.

Treaty Is Justly Severe

It is a severe treaty, the president went on and just so. Some of the men who had called it unduly harsh he added, were criticizing the administration a year ago because they were not ready to make a treaty with Germany.

"They were pitiful now," he said, "they are pitiful now because they are not ready to make a treaty with Germany."

Wilson declared, had fought not for the redemption of America, but for the redemption of the world. "I was one of the hardiest of men in the war," he said, "to be able merely to direct the policies of the nation and not to take a gun and go himself."

He was interrupted by applause when he said:

"If you are going to play a lone hand" said he "the hand that you play must be the hand of the people. The weapon must be all the young men of the country and the business of the country must pay the piper."

There was a great deal of applause when he continued and it was the province of the treaty to set up an industrial democracy as well as a political democracy. He continued that there were domestic questions to be settled in that connection because there could be no industrial democracy as long as monopolies existed. He was interrupted by applause when he added:

"And we have not yet finished with the monopolies."

"There are apostles of Lenin in our own midst," he said, "and it means to be an apostle of darkness. Our business is to see that no minority can control in an orderly manner how poor, shall get control of the United States."

The purification of political conditions would be accomplished until that treaty was accepted and peace established.

"You can't hate a fellow you know," said Mr. Wilson. "I know some crooks that I can't help liking. The league might not prevent all wars, but 10 percent insurance was better than the league."

Saying he had heard that "radicalism" pervaded the west, Mr. Wilson declared that he was not a radical, and that it is to deprive it of food.

"I added that as long as there were things that should be corrected he would not ask that men stop agitation but insisted only that they agitate only in an orderly manner."

Mr. Wilson said he "repudiated" the suggestion that other nations were not acting in good faith in forming the league.

The president said he was "just as sure of what the verdict of this nation will be as if it had already been rendered. His conviction was that the plain people had convinced him," he said, "that the United States had wanted the league of nations."

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL FINDS COOPERATION OF BUSINESS MEN

"With the splendid co-operation of business men and the adjustment of classes to a system, I believe that this war will be an entire success," said J. M. Dorrans, superintendent of the vocational school today.

Mr. Dorrans is the new superintendent of the vocational school, successor to the late C. F. Hill. His past experience as state manual training inspector and of the vocational school, has made it necessary to give him a wide understanding of vocational work.

The board of education has appointed J. M. Dorrans, head of the manual training activities of the high school and of the city.

One of the things which will aid the boys of the vocational school, according to Mr. Dorrans, is the combination of equipment purchased by the vocational board and the board of education.

The correlation has further been carried out in that there is an exchange of high school and vocational teachers.

The school, teaches drawing and machine work to the boys of the high school, and C. Crabtree, of the high school, teaches the boys of the vocational school.

The increase in enrollment of the vocational school, due to the growth of industry in the city, has made it necessary to make several time adjustments.

Last year the boys began school at 7:30 o'clock. This year they will start at 8 o'clock. The noon hour will be shortened and the school will be dismissed at 3 o'clock.

This will enable those boys who make their living by carrying newspapers ample time to get to their work. There will be no school on Saturday this year, as many of the students will wish to work on that day.

FLIES INCREASE AS CARELESSNESS GROWS

Answer to the question of why so many houseflies are being noticed now as compared to a few months ago is given by Dr. Fred B. Welch, city health officer, as being due to the fact that manure piles are not being taken care of properly. Had such nuisances been given the care during the summer that they were given during the spring the Janesville fly population would be in the thousands instead of in the millions, he says.
Treatment of manure with boracic solution or screening will effectively eliminate the favorite breeding places of flies, says Dr. Welch. The "swat the fly" and general clean-up campaign staged in the spring were considered of inestimable benefit in abating the fly nuisance.

Circle Games for Parties and Picnics

By Louise Freer
Director of Physical Training for Women, The University of Illinois.

Have you ever noticed how popular is the girl who can always think of good relishing games to play at a big party or picnic? Circle games are best of all.

"Slap-jack" is always fun. Join hands in one large or two smaller circles. One player runs outside the circle and tags another. The player tagged immediately runs in the opposite direction. Both try to get back to the vacant place first. The one that doesn't is left outside, and so must tag somebody else and run again. This can be played by having the players meet, or by making them walk instead of run.

"Flying Dutchman" is really double "Slap-jack." The players join hands as they stand in the circle.

Two and two are chosen to be runners. The runners also join hands and run around the circle, tag any two hands. Each couple tries to get back to the vacant place first.

"Two Deep" is another good one. A tagger and a runner are chosen to be "it." The one who is being chased tries to save herself by taking a place in front of anyone in the circle. This player immediately becomes the runner. If the runner is tagged before she can get in front of another player, she, of course, becomes the tagger.

"Dodge Ball" is one of the most popular double circle games. Those in the inside circle step forward, forming a scattered group. The players in the outside circle try to hit those on the inside with the ball. Anyone hit is out of it. The inner players score on the basis of the number left in the ring when time is called. The two teams then change places, and the others see if they can run up a higher score.

(Next week: "A Hike Contest," with a picnic thrown in for good measure.)

The week day Bible History and catechetical classes of St. Peter's Lutheran church will open this week. For the boys and girls between 12 and 14 years a Bible history class will meet Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The catechetical class begins Friday evening at 7 o'clock. Any children who cannot come on Saturday morning are asked to report Friday evening until the classes are finally arranged.

H. S. Students Fill Out Enrollment Blanks

Enrollment blanks were filled out this morning by the students of the high school. At the beginning of the afternoon session the roll was taken for the first time this year by those sitting in the last seat of each row. The monitors for the year have not been appointed by Prin. G. A. Bassford.

The Misses Katherine Foster and Della Hargrove were unable to hear their classes today because of illness.

MANY H. S. STUDENTS TO ATTEND COLLEGE

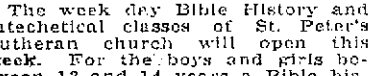

That higher education is favored by the people of Janesville is evidenced by the large number of people who will enter the various colleges and universities of the country this fall.

The high school graduating class of 19 numbered 32 graduates. Of this number, 25 have already signified their intention to Prin. G. A. Bassford of attending college this fall. This makes 42.7 percent of the class to continue in school. More are reporting to Mr. Bassford every day.

Not only this year's graduating class, but many of other years' classes will enter school again this fall.

ENGLISH AND FRENCH TONGUES IN QUEBEC

UNITE TO ACCLAIM THE PRINCE OF WALES

The Duke of Devonshire

The Duke of Devonshire presenting Premier Borden (right) and other Cabinet Ministers to the Prince

One hundred and sixty years ago, in 1759, French and British armies joined in epic combat on the Plains of Abraham, before Quebec. The heroic General Wolfe and the equally heroic Montcalm both lost their lives and did not see the ancient stronghold of the French in Canada pass under English rule. The old order passed, and in this year of 1919 the descendants of the gallant French defenders, although still French in language, united with the English speaking part of Quebec's population to pay homage to the young man who will one day rule the British Empire. The mingled cries of "Hurrah for Wales!" and "Vive le Prince!" expressed in an unmistakable way that Canada has been welded into a nation.

His Royal Highness visited the historic Chateau Frontenac and other points of interest in Quebec and was received everywhere with an enthusiasm which was as much a tribute to his own attractive personality as to the fact that he is a living symbol of the Empire's union.

He was the guest of the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada at the citadel and from there started out on his tour of the Dominion on a special train provided by the Canadian Pacific.

Arthur B. Calder, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the road, will act as host for President E. W. Beatty. Altogether he will spend seventy days on the train and will cover the breadth of Canada to Vancouver and return and then come to the United States on a flying visit before returning to England.

Miss Vernice Sennett, clerk of the high school, is busy making out the records of the standings and number of credits of those going away to school. These reports are to be sent to the college or university that the graduates will attend.

LIBRARY WELCOMES BACK BOYS AND GIRLS

The public library welcomes the boys and girls back to school. It has arranged for them to meet all their old friends Robin Hood, King Arthur, Alice in Wonderland, Mark Tidd, Tom Sawyer, Meg Jo, and others. They are expending the boys and girls to come to the library after school. The old book friends and some new ones are there. Among them are: "Boys' Life of Theodore Roosevelt," Hagedorn; "Indian Heroes and Great Chieftains," Eastman; "In Hostile Country," Altschuler; "Lads Who Dared," Constock; "First Aid for Boys," Cole; "The Elephant," Herbert; "Heroes of Everyday Life," Benton; "Ghosts of the Sloop Spray," Slocum; "Batter Up," Williams; "Scouting with General Pershing," Tomlinson; "Between the Lines in France," Amer; "On the War Path," Schultz; "Girls' books: 'Girls in Backland,' Hawthorne; 'A Little Cook Book for a Little Girl,' Benton; 'Girls of the World,' Knapp; 'Heroes of Service,' Parkman; 'Winona of the Campfire,' Widdemore; 'The Runaway,' French; 'Understand Your Book,' French; 'Isabel Caveto's Year,' Ashmun; 'Little Girls' Knitting and Crochet Book,' Kitchener; 'Just Party Webster,' 'Boy Kings and Girl Queens,' Marshall; 'Colette in France,' MacDonald.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

INCIPENT TUBERCULOSIS AND EXOPHTHALMIC GOITRE

Something was said in this column a long time since about the difficulty of deciding whether a patient is ill of incipient (early or beginning) tuberculosis of the lung or a masked exophthalmic goitre. Exophthalmic goitre is the type of goitre in which wide, prominent, staring or frightened looking eyes are noted, exophthalmos meaning bulging or protruding eyeballs. This feature of the disease may be but slightly noticeable or overlooked by the casual observer. But other features of exophthalmic goitre are not overlooked, for the patient is ill. Yet even the most skillful and experienced physicians are sometimes unable to decide which disease the patient has; perhaps one inclines to a diagnosis of incipient consumption, and another inclines to a diagnosis of hyperthyroidism (which is the symptom-producing state in exophthalmic goitre.)

What is the patient to do if the doctors disagree in such a serious matter? Do as the doctors direct. The better treatment for either disease, at least in the first few months, is prolonged rest in the open air. It happens to be tuberculosis, probably arrest will be attained before the diagnosis is made. Whereas if it happens to be hyperthyroidism, which is the road to normal health again before the diagnosis is settled. So, what's the odds?

It is certainly delightful to have the doctors disagree about anything. There is nothing which pleases chronic patients more than a cordial disagreement among the doctors. Still, that need not interfere with the treatment to any considerable extent.

Dr. Nicholson and Groetsch of Trudeau, in the Adirondacks, report in the American Review of Tuberculosis a new therapeutic test, which is said to differentiate many of these borderline cases. The test consists in injecting under the skin of the patient a small amount of a substance which gland over-secretion in exophthalmic goitre.

Mrs. R. A. Sprague.

"Municipal Housekeeper" is the title which has been bestowed upon Mrs. R. A. Sprague of Grand Forks, North Dakota, since she was appointed city food inspector. Mrs. Sprague has been somewhat of a food inspector for some time. She was appointed to the position after the women of the city insisted that the police department should have a representative of their sex. Almost her whole time is taken up with the duty of seeing that the dealers in food products keep foodstuffs in cleanly places and do not sell anything but pure food to their customers.

The Daily Novelette

BAFFLED BCMLY.

(Translated from the Russian.) Muffled in a big fur coat up to his eyes and covered with a cap down to his nose, Slipoff Alongovitch gazed furtively up and down the Nevsky Prospekt.

Then he stole noiselessly along, clinging to the walls as he went, gazing fearfully all around the time until he came to a certain house. Then he emitted a hoarse cry like a Russian beaglebird and a window flew open upstairs. A ladder let down and a pair of women's boots, well-filled, stepped upon the top step. She carried a small trunk, and as she came on down, was dressed in red and heavily veiled, though one could see by the way she hunched up her back, she was beautiful.

Grasping her eagerly by the hand and kissing her on the brim of her hat, Slipoff rushed across the street where a waiting droosky (carriage) awaited. They were eloping.

Just as they were about to step into the droosky, Slipoff dropped Yasha's hand. "B' Heavensvitch!" he growled and his face took on the look of a Russian wolfhound.

"You have let my hand drop!" cried Yasha, peevishly, but Slipoff did not. For, coming up the street on Orlov Vozdianko's arm, was Vodka, his wife. He waited for them.

"What are you doing with my Vodka?" he bellowed. "I will kill you like a dogsky!" "I should worryvitch!" drawled Orlov. "Anyways, what are you doing in a droosky, with Yasha Biggunsky, B'reoff Biggunsky's wife, heh?"

With a snarl of defeat, Slipoff dashed into the nearest munition store and wrote out a prescription for a two-ton bomb, while Vodka and Orlov walked down the street, laughing and with each other's arms wrapped around each other's waists. The scorned Yasha put Slipoff's name down in her book for the next victim of the Terrible Ten.

Soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses who served during the late world war are requested by the members of the service recognition board of Wisconsin to apply for blanks on which they will be required to make their applications for the bonus. According to an announcement made today by John G. Salsman, secretary of the board, the blanks may be secured by writing to the board at Madison.

"The war records of the Wisconsin men and women have been sent to Washington and are not available for use in the state," Mr. Salsman said.

The law recently passed in this state also provides that the bonus be paid the heirs of deceased soldiers, the surviving widow, child or child, mother or dependent father in the order named.

THE CUMMINS RAILROAD BILL.

Senator Cummins of Iowa probably will be remembered longest for the railroad bill which he has recently introduced. It is a sane and constructive piece of work, and obviously is intended to serve as a compromise in endeavoring to please the greatest possible number of those directly interested, including workers, owners, and public.

If the bill becomes a law, it is likely to be amended in order to make it generally acceptable. Neither workers nor owners are fully disposed to like it.

The workers will object to the provision barring strikes and lock-outs. The people as a whole will approve of this principle, because railroad strikes are always sure to bring immeasurable loss and suffering. The national interest will be best served if labor can be so safeguarded, in provisions for fair adjustments of wages and working conditions, that strikes will be unnecessary and uncalled for. It must strive for an arrangement so completely and obviously just that strikes can be done away with.

The owners of railroad securities are likely to object to the provision for the distribution of earnings. The Cummins plan gives them a fair return on actual valuation of property. Half of any surplus goes to the workers. The other half is to be turned over to a federal board, which is to invest the money in new equipment, to be leased to the roads. All that the owners can possibly hope to get is a fair return, possibly five or six percent, and this is not to be guaranteed.

The owners will complain that the plan robs them of a very important factor in commercial enterprise—incentive. What object will there be to strive for a surplus when they will not get any of it? They will be required to pay rental for the lease of new equipment purchased out of the earnings of their own property. New capital for extending railroads and building new ones will be difficult or impossible to get, it is said. If incentive is removed, thus stagnation might follow, unless new building were financed from government funds.

It is clear that the new railroad law must be made as fair to all as possible. The workers must feel that their participation in management and adjustments takes care of their interests. Owners and operators should not be deprived of incentive. Remove incentive, and deterioration is bound to come. Employees cannot prosper when employers do not.

Senator Cummins' bill will get plenty of criticism, and probably will undergo many changes. But on the whole it contains much solid material and affords an excellent basis on which to work.

A NEW NEAR EAST.

A great work has been done in the near east. A greater work remains. Tons of thousands of little children, besides men and women, are living today who with relief would certainly have perished.

But the need for relief has not passed and after relief must come reconstruction.

These refugees (700,000 reported by military authorities in the Caucasus alone, exclusive of other areas) are not yet able to return to their homes which are occupied or controlled by demobilized, but armed, Turkish soldiers and bands of brigands. They must in some way be helped through another winter or until they can be restored to their lands and ruined homes under proper governmental protection.

The able-bodied adults will quickly regain self-support, but a large part, if not the majority of the refugees, are orphans who do not know their own names or the names of their relatives.

These children, who are potentially "The New Near East," must be saved, sheltered, clothed, fed and educated until they can take their proper places in the service of their new country and the new world.

Confronted by these facts and responsibilities, the executive committee of Near East Relief has adopted the following tentative guiding principles for its work during 1919-1920:

Work of general relief, repatriation, rehabilitation, etc., as soon and as rapidly as responsible government is established.

Continuance of the committee's medical and sanitation work. At least 25 well-organized hospitals are now operating besides numerous dispensaries.

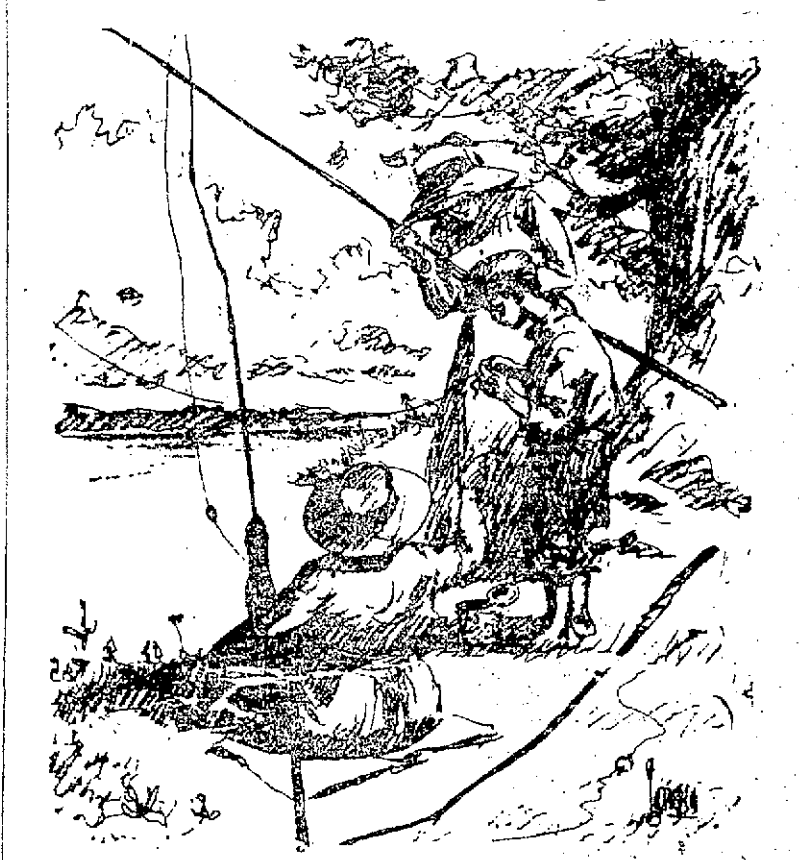

Maintenance of present staff of 400 experienced relief workers and agents now occupying practically every important center of distribution in the Near East.

Development of industrial relief and trade schools to secure the largest practicable measure of self-support and future usefulness.

Support of such orphans as cannot be cared for by relatives, government or other agencies.

A commission is now in western Asia engaged in making a survey to determine the minimum budget required to cover the above, tentative program. In advance, however, it seems evident that the budget for this program, kept to its minimum terms, will be fully equal to the disbursements of the past year. The call to the humanitarianism of America is as urgent as ever, though, perhaps, not so loud.

Sketches From Life -- By Temple

Fisherman's Luck

BIG DEVELOPMENT POSS.

At the state fair this week the Samson Tractor company has an exhibit that is one of the chief attractions. It is too, and this same display could not have been seen at the Rock county fair, because it would have given us a close-up conception of the magnitude of the undertaking here in Janesville and the possibilities of the mammoth development for the industrial life of the city.

We have heard mostly of the farm tractor and have watched the building operations at Spring Brook with that principally in mind. There have been rumors and stories of other machinery to be built here by the Samson people, but nothing concrete as to these other appliances until they were put on an exhibition at the state fair this week.

The report carried in the Gazette Tuesday, from our staff representative after visiting the Samson display, is deeply interesting, and if these products are to be made in Janesville, they will give out to our own mind just what sort of hive of industry we will have here, and do you think we can "get-by" with a tremendous industrial growth such as this would mean?

The state fair exhibit not only includes two types of farm tractors, but in addition a nine-passenger pleasure car to sell at $750, a 3-ton truck, a 1 1/2-ton truck, a complete farm lighting plant, and an iceless refrigerator. These products put on the market in the way the Samson people have put their tractors will make necessary a number of plants of great size and importance. Will Janesville be favored? Is she in position to handle such growth? What is the answer?

MALICIOUS GOSSIP.

The person who deliberately, and out of whole cloth, starts a story calculated to do harm to another is a menace to any community and should not be tolerated. It is fortunate there are but few of this type in any community; they are not desirable. There are others, however, who unthinkingly, probably, repeat a story without foundation on fact. It may affect an individual—it may be a business house. Either way it usually does harm. Just now some wild stories have been started in Janesville business houses, either with malicious intent or as a pastime for those who have time for and who deal in idle gossip. One merchant, Amos Rehberg, has offered a large reward for apprehension of the person or persons who started the story. Repeating an unconfirmed piece of gossip is dangerous. It might work great harm to some perfectly innocent person. These are not good times for idle gossip.

ENLARGED PAGE.

The eight column size page with what is known in the newspaper business as 12 1/2 cms width, will be the standard for the Gazette from this on. It will permit of economy in production and additional space for news and advertising. Practically every large paper in the country is of the eight column size, arrived at after a close study of conditions and adopted as a standard. While the change involves a considerable expenditure of money, the publisher feels that the community demands the best in his chief representative—the daily newspaper—and will continue to incorporate such additional equipment as will make possible the production of a worth while newspaper.

TRAVELETTE

By NIKSAH.

PAGO PAGO. Pago Pago, on the island of Titi-tula in American Samoa, would probably be an easy winter in comparison for the least known town of its size under the American flag.

Most Americans never heard of Pago Pago, yet it has an excellent harbor, is an important naval coaling station, and is governed by American naval officers.

The island of Titi-tula is one of six little tropical atolls which constitute American Samoa. They are all mountainous, and are very picturesque with their jungle-covered steep slopes and their great palm groves sheltering little white native towns.

These natives are a peculiarly attractive people, as any American "Jockey" who has spent a while at Pago Pago will tell you. They are kindly, hospitable, and full of fun, while some of the women, especially the hair-dresses, are really beautiful.

The favorite native diversion, strangely enough, is cricket, which was taught the Samoans by British missionaries long ago, and has well-nigh supplanted all the really indigenous sports. But the Samoan has

THEY ALL GET YOU CLEAN

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Whoever you are, you will not deny that you are a regular consumer of soap. That you have been intimately associated with soap every day of your life since early infancy, and that you ought to know something about soap. As a matter of fact, do you know anything about it at all? Do you know what it is made of? Do you know what is a fair price for a piece of soap? Do you know what kind of soap are injurious and what are not? Do you know what kind of soap will last a long time, and what kind will wear away quickly? The chances are you do not. The consumer never knows anything about the articles he buys, either as to their actual value or as to their comparative qualities. That is one reason why he gets so regularly and thoroughly stung.

If the United States government had bought the soap which was used during the war in the same spirit of happy and reckless ignorance which you bring to your shopping, this nation would have been bankrupt long ago. But the government had scientists analyze everything it bought. It found out just what was good and what was not. It found out just what it cost to produce an article, and refused to pay more than that amount plus a fair profit. The result was that the government purchased most of its supplies at a fraction of what they cost the public, and then retailed them again through its quartermaster stores at prices less than half of those that you and I pay.

Few Ideas Extracted.

The results of many of the government studies of articles of common household use have been so bewilderingly technical reports, but out of these reports can be extracted a few facts and ideas which are valuable to the layman. Some of these facts about soap are offered here, in the belief that the general public will enjoy a little gossip about such an old and valued friend, and will perhaps be enabled to understand him a little better in the future.

It should be added that the government is not responsible for the conclusions here set forth. They are drawn by the writer from the technical facts of the reports.

In the first place it should be said that there is very little poor soap on the American market. American manufacturers make good soap almost exclusively, and you are in little danger of getting a soap that will injure your complexion or your hair. In the second place, it is possible to buy the best soap for a practical purpose at 5 to 10 cents a cake. When you pay 20 to 50 cents for a cake of soap you are not getting any more luxurious soap, but you are getting more when you pay 5 cents.

Pay for Perfume.

The more expensive soap may contain a perfume which the cheaper lacks, and if this tickles your nose or your ears, you may be getting your money's worth. The more expensive soap probably comes in a fancy box or wrapper, and here again your sense of the beautiful may be delighted to 15 cents' worth. Many of the expensive soaps are advertised to have medical value. All soap has a good deal of medicinal value inasmuch as soap is one of the best of disinfectants, and the medicated soap may have somewhat more value than the non-medicated. But do not be too much impressed by the soap which is advertised to confer upon you any other boon than that of cleanliness.

For all of these soaps are made of about the same things. The fact of the matter is that when our forefathers used soap, it was made of tallow and soda. The liquid soap which you commonly find in public wash rooms are of a composition different from that of the soaps you buy in cakes. These liquid soaps are almost all made of coconut oil and potash instead of tallow and soda. Either sugar, alcohol or glycerol is usually added to prevent cloudiness and to keep the soap from forming in the container. Relatively few of these soaps contain alcohol, so do not try drinking them. The glycerol rather improves the character of the soap, but the sugar is objectionable. It is what makes so much of this liquid soap feel sticky.

A good deal has been said about the purity and wholesomeness of soaps made from vegetable oils, and the implication has been pretty well made out that the public mind that there is something impure about soaps made from animal fats. According to the scientists, there is nothing in this. Soaps made from coconut oil, olive oil and palm oil are not necessarily any more pure or effective than those made from tallow, as nearly all soaps are. Even refuse fats, which are not fit for human food, are just as good as any others for making soap provided they are properly treated. In fact, from the standpoint of animal economy, the fats which are not fit to eat are just the ones that should be used for soap.

Remember, then, that an inexpensive soap is just as good as an expensive one; but whatever kind you use, use plenty.

The kind that are speedy all run into a lather. And they have to be kept right in trim.

THEY ALL GET YOU CLEAN

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Whoever you are, you will not deny that you are a regular consumer of soap. That you have been intimately associated with soap every day of your life since early infancy, and that you ought to know something about soap. As a matter of fact, do you know anything about it at all? Do you know what it is made of? Do you know what is a fair price for a piece of soap? Do you know what kind of soap are injurious and what are not? Do you know what kind of soap will last a long time, and what kind will wear away quickly? The chances are you do not. The consumer never knows anything about the articles he buys, either as to their actual value or as to their comparative qualities. That is one reason why he gets so regularly and thoroughly stung.

If the United States government had bought the soap which was used during the war in the same spirit of happy and reckless ignorance which you bring to your shopping, this nation would have been bankrupt long ago. But the government had scientists analyze everything it bought. It found out just what was good and what was not. It found out just what it cost to produce an article, and refused to pay more than that amount plus a fair profit. The result was that the government purchased most of its supplies at a fraction of what they cost the public, and then retailed them again through its quartermaster stores at prices less than half of those that you and I pay.

The results of many of the government studies of articles of common household use have been so bewilderingly technical reports, but out of these reports can be extracted a few facts and ideas which are valuable to the layman. Some of these facts about soap are offered here, in the belief that the general public will enjoy a little gossip about such an old and valued friend, and will perhaps be enabled to understand him a little better in the future.

It should be added that the government is not responsible for the conclusions here set forth. They are drawn by the writer from the technical facts of the reports.

In the first place it should be said that there is very little poor soap on the American market. American manufacturers make good soap almost exclusively, and you are in little danger of getting a soap that will injure your complexion or your hair. In the second place, it is possible to buy the best soap for a practical purpose at 5 to 10 cents a cake. When you pay 20 to 50 cents for a cake of soap you are not getting any more luxurious soap, but you are getting more when you pay 5 cents.

This amount will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who are maliciously spreading a report that this firm has been arrested and fined for profiteering.

We take this means of branding the report as utterly false and untrue. The court records will show that it is absolutely without foundation in fact.

Our past record of years of satisfactory dealing with thousands of people in Janesville and vicinity is the best answer we can make to such a ludicrous story.

The basic principle of this business has always been large volume of sales, doing business with the many rather than the few and depending upon that small margin of profit which would make our prices so attractive that people would come to this store because of the savings they would make here. That this policy has succeeded is evidenced by the splendid stocks of popular priced merchandise we offer and by the immense volume of business we transact yearly.

FIGHTING MARINE ARRIVES HOME AFTER 25 MONTHS OVERSEAS

Lieut. Victor Bleasdale, fifth marine, who has been acclaimed by his comrades as the greatest hero in the American army, arrived in Jansville last night to spend a few days, after spending the past 25 months in France and Germany. He is the same modest youth who left the Jansville High school to fight for his country. Although awarded the distinguished service cross and the French Croix de Guerre with palm, Lieut. Bleasdale has nothing to say regarding the late world war.

"It was a great fight while it lasted and if the Germans had only held out for a few more weeks, we would have marched right into Berlin," Lieut. Bleasdale said. He was severely wounded in action during the terrific fighting near Soissons, but he recovered in time to participate in the Argonne and was fighting the day the armistice was signed.

Lieutenant Bleasdale left the local high school before war was declared and enlisted as a private in the marines. He spent several months in the Philippines and was given a commission shortly after war was declared.

Arriving overseas with the first contingent of marines, he was one of the first Americans and the first Jansville boy to enter action against the Germans.

"I have not received my discharge as yet and have not fully made up my mind what I will do in the future," Lieut. Bleasdale said. "I may possibly return to Jansville and remain here permanently."

REHBERG AROUSED BY FALSE REPORTS

Amos Rehberg, president of the Rehberg Clothing company, offered a reward of $500 today for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who were spreading the report about the city that he had been arrested and fined for profiteering. The report, according to Rehberg, has been circulating throughout the city by someone evidently trying to injure the company.

In discussing the incident today Mr. Rehberg said he was offering the reward as a means of branding the report as utterly false and untrue. The court records will show that it is absolutely without foundation.

MOST "BEMEDALED" VETERAN IN CITY

Lieut. William Laffin, accompanied by Private Berger Loman, acknowledged by all to be the most bemedaled hero of the war, arrived in Jansville this morning. Lieut. Laffin will open a campaign in the city for subscribers to a magazine which will be issued by the American Legion.

Private Loman wears at the present time the congressional medal of honor, the highest award given by the United States; the French legion of honor and the Croix de Guerre with palm. He has also been cited for the British distinguished service medal, the Victoria cross, and the Belgian war cross.

"I don't know why they gave them all to me as I simply was doing what any fellow would have done had he been given the same opportunity that I had," Private Loman said. He also has a citation from General John Pershing for heroic and gallant work near Jemigny.

Lieutenant Laffin expects Private Clayton Slack, the only Wisconsin boy to wear the congressional medal of honor, Sgt. Robert Schlar, and Sgt. Ben Judson to help with the work here.

"The magazine is to be published by the American Legion for the ex-service men and one of the first stands to be taken will be for a one year federal bonus," Lieutenant Laffin said.

WHICH DO YOU PREFER, CAREFULLY MARCELLED LOCKS OR NATURALLY WAVY ONES? BOTH ARE FASHIONABLE TODAY

At the upper left and lower right are two coiffures which were made possible by the iron, the hairnet, fancy combs and much time. The other two modes were quickly arranged with deft fingers and it is hard to say which is the prettier. One thing is certain, to be fashionable today one must wear the hair in one of these ways. That means there must either be a natural wave to the hair or else it must be marcelled. Straight locks combed back tightly are a thing of the past and made their exit with uniforms, and other war innovations. Even the girl who has bobbed her hair can not evade the curling iron, for bobbed locks, to be fashionable, must also be worn curled. When marcelled, the hair is usually worn high on the head, while the girl with naturally wavy hair arranges it softly about the face, and draws it low, making a knot at the back of the neck. Of course this question of whether to wear the hair high or low can only be decided by studying one's features, and profile carefully and trying both arrangements, usually difficult to arrange the hair high without curling or ruffling it, and the girl with naturally wavy hair should never do that.

News Notes from Movieland

By DAISY DEAN

"Aint she terrible?" whispers the flapper next to me in a giggly voice when Louise Fazenda trips her feet, throwing plaid hose and long pantaloons. And almost everybody agrees. Louise Fazenda is "terrible"—funny, she is a comical queen; the first order and it is she who furnishes the feminine element and considerable of the punch, speaking literally, for the Mack Sennett comedies.

Born in Lafayette, Indiana, in 1895, Miss Fazenda was educated in St. Mary's convent and the Los Angeles high school. She was in stock for a short time, but almost immediately transferred her allegiance to the screen. "The Girl in the Saddle," "Her Torpedoed Lover," and "Maggie's First False Step" are among the classics she has graced. Her first work was done for Universal. Then she went to Keystone. Now she's stranded with Sennett.

The young woman is a blonde and weighs 155 pounds. She is a rather pretty miss when she discards her sis-tops like makeup, now isn't she?

CONFIRMATION
Universal is making a five-reel feature of Arthur Somers Roche's novel, "Foot." A couple of years ago they made a fifteen-reel series from the same story. "The Gray Ghost" was the serial title. Maybe it'll be a two-reel comedy now.

GOSPEL
Miss Miller Minter entertained the Belgian military mission at sea in New York.

Gertrude McCoy is new in London, where she is acting before the movie camera.

Bert Lytell impersonates a convict in "Easy to Make Money."

Robert Warwick was the winner of a popularity contest in Santiago, Chile.

Dustin Farnum's arm was badly torn when he got too near a lion's cage at the studio.

Matt Moore is to play opposite Miss Jans in "Everybody's Sweetheart."

"The Cinema Murder" will be the title of Marion Davies' next picture.

Garret Huxley will play opposite Clara Kimball Young in "Eyes of Youth."

THE WISHING PLANE

You remember, in yesterday's story Signor Angelo was telling about Peter and how he saved the city of Lucerne.

"Well, continued Angelo, 'Peter followed through the woods and into the end of an old tunnel. A little ways from the end of it the men stopped. Peter could hear them talking with the traitor, who had waited for them there. The traitor told them the number of men in the city and the best time to attack the city and offered to lead the soldiers. Peter decided from what they said that the tunnel ran into the center of the city and had been forgotten by most of the people alive at that time.

"He knew that unless he hurried back to the city and warned the people there the Austrians would sneak in—probably in the dead of night—and kill or capture everyone. So he started to leave the tun-

SENATOR HENRY ASHURST.
The ability to stick to a job is held up as one of the qualities that leads to success, but it was not that quality that brought Senator Henry Ashurst of Arizona to the senate.

According to his own confession, Senator Ashurst began his career as a lumberjack and became successively cowboy, clerk, cashier, newspaper reporter and lawyer before he was elected to the senate. Even now the Arizona senator displays a few cowboy traits at least senatorial gossip has it that he is quick to offer to use his fists on occasions.

The Arizona senator was born at Winemuccia, Nevada, in 1878, studied law at the University of Michigan, 1903-1904, although he had been admitted to the Arizona bar in 1897, was admitted to practice in the U. S. supreme court, 1908; was elected a member of the Arizona legislature, 1907, 1908, 1909 (speaker); 1909, said to be the youngest man ever to have held such a position in the United States; was elected senator from Arizona in 1911, and re-elected in 1917.

Senator Ashurst is a Democrat.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl 16 years of age and have been married one year. My life has been all happiness until within the last month.

Ever since I married, my husband and I have lived with his widowed mother and a sister, 15, one grown brother and his twin brother. We have got along until lately, for we love each other very dearly; but his mother got angry and called me all kinds of names and we quarreled. She said I would have to leave. I told my husband to take me into a house by ourselves so I could be happy, for all his folks have turned against me. He said I was too fiery and quick tempered. Then I cried and he tilted me, but said he would have to help his brothers make a living. Do you think he loves me? Do you think he should take me away? It would break my heart to part from him, but I can't live here any longer. His sister and mother took me and our quarrel started out over reading story books.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a very ambitious girl, but do not have enough money to fill my ambitions. I want to go away next summer and take a position in an office, but realize I must have money.

Will you please tell me how I can earn some? I go to school every night, but have my afternoons vacant.

Your question calls for a marvelous and inspirational answer, which is not a commonplace. Probably you can earn more money sewing than in any other way. If you are not a seamstress, there are many things, got work mending, darning and fixing over. Some girls make quite a little pin money by darning stockings.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am an orphan girl 14 years of age and live with my grandparents. Recently I have met a young man who seems to be a nice fellow and I have gone with him several times. My grandparents like him and think it is all right for me to keep company with him.

There is another boy going with me and I think more of him, but they do not want me to keep company with him. Should I give him up and go with the other boy? He seems to think a lot of me, but I only like him as a friend.

There are other girls who are jealous of me. Some are my best friends. How can I treat them so that they will not be so jealous, for I do not want to lose their friendship?

LEE.

If a girl of your age goes with boys at all, she should do so with her parents or guardian's approval. You should go with one young man, but do not approve of the other, follow their advice and trust to their discretion.

Be careful not to tell your girl friends about the good times you have. If you are considerate of their feelings and do not mention matters which will make them jealous, you will have no trouble.

GRAPE SEASON'S HERE.
 Preserved Green Grapes—Cut each grape in half and remove the seeds. Weigh the pulp and allow a pound of sugar for every pound of the fruit. Put all into a preserving kettle and bring very slowly to the boiling point. Cook until thick, then pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Grape Conserve—To a gallon of ripe grapes, cooked and run through a colander, add three pounds of sugar and the juice and grated rind of two oranges. Cook until thick and add one-half pound of pecan meats just before removing from the fire. All conserves should be poured in jelly glasses and when cool cover with paraffine.

Grape Catsup—Five pounds of grapes, one pound of sugar, one-half pint of vinegar, one-half ounce each of cinnamon, cloves and mace. Boil the sugar and vinegar together for 15 minutes. Heat the grapes through a colander, after which add them to the vinegar and sugar and cook for 20 minutes.

Spiced Grapes—Seven pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, one tablespoon of ground cloves, two tablespoons of ground cinnamon. Remove the pulp from the skins and boil until soft, then drain through a sieve. Boil the sugar and vinegar together, add the pulp of grapes, then the skins and spices, and boil together for two and one-half hours.

Grape Sherbet—One cup of sugar, one cup of water, one teaspoon of gelatine, two tablespoons of water, one cup grape juice, juice of one lemon.

Boil the sugar and water five minutes. Soak the gelatine in cold water five minutes and add the syrup, add fruit juice, cool and freeze. Scald the cream, add the sugar. Cool and add the grape juice. Freeze in the customary manner.

Grape Ice Cream—One-half cup thin cream, one-fourth cup grape juice, one-fourth cup sugar. Scald the cream, add the sugar. Cool and add the grape juice. Freeze in the customary manner.

Grape Whip—Three-fourths cup of grape juice, white of one egg, five tablespoons sugar, one cup double cream. Beat the white of the egg until foamy, add the grape juice mixed with the sugar and lastly the cream, then continue to whip with a cream whip.

Take off the froth as it rises and drain off a sieve. Pour the unwhipped mixture in small glasses and pile the whip on top.

CAPE STILL LOOK SNAPPY FOR FALL

A CHANCE TO LIVE

THE AWAKENING.
 "Listen, Nance; I had a confab with Arkwright." Bernie was a little excited and was trying to keep his fidgeting spirits under control as he followed Annie into the kitchen, and back again, and again into the kitchen and back again, while she set the dinner on the table. "You know, he isn't a bad sort of a guy—if you go at him right."

"Guess that's the way with most people," commented Annie encouragingly.

"Well, anyhow, I got hold of him after lunch, and we talked." Bernie pursued. "I figured it was rotten for him as manager paying me twelve a week just because he was a clerk. But he was frank. Said it was simply a case of holding his own job that if he couldn't show he was running his department as low expense as other firms did, he'd get fired. It isn't his fault; it's the system's fault." Bernie was still high in the wake of the system.

"You're a clerk, aren't you?" Bernie asked. "I think they are. But I like a fellow to be ambitious. I can always use a man that knows more than other men about some thing and get the ins and outs of the business."

"You bet I am, I told him—and he could see I meant it. What ought I to know to get me promotion and more pay?"

"Well, he said, what I need most is a man who knows about freight rates and routings and keeps posted on the changes that are being made all the time now. This war, he said, ought to boost our business to double its regular amount, and maybe more. Everybody'll be buying tobacco for the soldiers, and if this draft goes through, he says, we'll be working nights and holidays, or I only miss my guess."

"The next step after you know all about your clerk job, he said, is to learn the outside end of the business—the selling end. That's the big thing to put over—sales. When you can do that, the way's open to almost any job you want in the company—head manager, vice president, director, owner! These are the fellows that get all the profits, he said, and he's right. Ark. He doesn't know how right he is.

Bernie paused for the double purpose of wiping his diner, which was now on the table, and trying to recall what he had read in a book allegiance. He wanted to shout it from the housetops, to change human nature at one stroke, to wither the noxious fruits of the present industrial system instantly, to obliterate poverty, slavery, caste, class hatred, child labor, unemployment and all other corruption at a single blast. He didn't know where to begin.

whom to hate, whom not to blame. He only knew that he had found something, the possibilities of which to himself and others he did not dream. It remained for Annie, who knew still less of it than he, to set him upon the practical path leading upward. (To be continued.)

SIDE TALKS

DOES IT GROW IN YOUR GARDEN?

There moved into our neighborhood a few months ago, a middle-aged couple whose only daughter is married and lives in a city about a thousand miles away. I had never met the daughter, but I soon came to feel as though I knew her well because her mother had so much to say about her.

Seldom have I seen mother and daughter seem to think more of each other. They wrote to each other every other day and never did any possible occasion for gift-giving, such as Valentine's day, Thanksgiving or Easter pass, but what the mother had some little gift to show me that her daughter had sent. As for the mother—well, she didn't need any occasion for her gifts. Her fingers were perpetually busy, and if one asked what kept them so, one was sure to find it was a pair of rompers for her grandchild, a shirt for the son-in-law or a dainty waist for the daughter-in-law.

All Roads led to Daughter.

In conversation with her, all roads led straight to the daughter and family. She never tired of telling me how generous and thoughtful her daughter was, how she had had flowers sent her every day when she had been ill once, and how she never missed a letter, and so forth and so on.

Naturally, when her daughter came to visit, I looked for some little demonstration of family affection. And for the first two or three days I saw it. But very, very soon the rifts in the lute began to appear. Daughter accepted too many invitations from her old friends and mother was hurt at being left alone. Mother wanted to correct what she regarded as faults in her grandchild and daughter resented that. Daughter wanted to re-arrange details in the household and mother resented that. Daughter even informed me that she thought her mother wore too much jewelry. Instead of an atmosphere of unending of distinct tension in that house.

They could do the Little Things but Not the Big One.

I don't doubt that these two really loved each other in the common use of the word. I couldn't doubt that they were always doing little things for each other. But they couldn't do the one big thing. They could do the little things and work hard to make each other material gifts, but they couldn't give each other the gift of sufficient forbearance and understanding and leniency to produce a happy companionship over two months.

They Could Die but Cannot Live for Each Other.

It seems to me that this is true of a great many families. They love each other deeply—they would perhaps even die for each other. But they can not or will not live for each other.

A happy congenial companionship is the true flower of family life. It should be the commonest flower that grows and yet I have pessimistic moments when it seems to me it is the rarest. Does it grow in the garden of your life?

A movement is on foot in Washington to interest the twenty senators and thirty-two representatives of ten western states in a booster organization to put more weight behind legislation of benefit to the states west of the Rocky Mountains. The organization will be bi-partisan. Solons from Washington, Oregon and California meeting recently in Representative Julius Kahn's office, backing at least one measure. Legislators from Idaho, Colorado, Arizona and Nevada have said they favor

Around the State

Retires from Ministry.
Eau Claire.—Simultaneously with the announcement of his appointment by State Banking Commissioner Marshall Cousins, Madison, as state bank examiner, it is announced here that the Rev. Philip Henry Linley, former pastor of Christ Episcopal church here, who served as chaplain overseas with the famous 82nd division during the war with distinction, has retired permanently from the ministry, and will hereafter devote himself to business. Rev. Linley was, before coming to Eau Claire, pastor of Christ church at Chippewa Falls. He came to Eau Claire in 1906 and his parish here soon became one of the largest and strongest in the diocese, and four years ago the congregation built one of the finest churches in the state.

Normal School.—The Eau Claire state normal school will begin its third year Monday, with by far the largest attendance in its history. The faculty has been enlarged to take care of the large increase in attendance.

Makes Two Appointments.
Madison.—John C. Callahan, secretary of the board of vocational instruction, has announced two appointments. G. S. Gehrand, Madison, has been named as superintendent of agricultural education at a salary of $3,000 a year, and Margaret Johnson, Ellenworth, has been chosen as superintendent of home economics at a salary of $1,000 a year.

Minister Quits.
Eau Claire.—After serving just 20 years as pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church here, the Rev. O. S. Ryge has resigned and plans to retire from the ministry on account of ill health. He will move to Minneapolis. He became pastor of the local church in 1899, succeeding the Rev. J. W. Preus, now pastor of a Minneapolis congregation.

Injured by Wire.
Appleton.—While trying to cross a ravine on a wire which a number of boys strung up, Frank Crowe, aged 12, got stuck and was unable to move in either direction. Other boys yelled to him to jump and as a result his left arm was broken in two places, his right arm in one and both wrists dislocated. He dropped 15 feet, striking on his hands.

Two Die in Appleton.
Appleton.—Miss Elizabeth Smith, who taught in the north side school at Kaukauna, for 25 years, is dead. While riding in a taxi John Hombette, 64, dropped dead.

Lieut. Ernest Brooks.

Lieut. Ernest Brooks, official photographer for the British royal family, is making a pictorial record of the visit of the Prince of Wales to America. The queen arranged for his school education and training in photography and he was later made official photographer for the royal household.

Fishing from Seaplanes is Latest Society Sport

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Santa Barbara, Cal.—Fishing from seaplanes is the latest sport of society leaders here. Craft owned by Loughhead brothers are often used and with their load of human freight of from six to 10 persons sail out from shore, rise to several hundred feet and flitly alight on the water at the fishing banks 10 miles off this city. Good catches have resulted from every trip. Society prefers the seaplane to the launch, saying it is speedier with less danger of mal de mer such as parties might experience in a boat.

London.—Holman Hunt's famous picture "The Lady of Shalott," was sold for $10,000 at Christie's. His "May Morning on Magdalen Tower, Oxford," realized $9,500.

JAZZ DANCE FADING

London.—"The jazz is fading but," holding up a number of sealed envelopes, "these may contain something entirely original which will supersede the jazz, the fox-trot and all others," declared Charles d'Almeida, secretary of the Imperial Society of Dancing Teachers in annual congress at the Grafton Galleries. Dancing teachers from Great Britain and the Continent were in attendance, and society will take up the dance selected by them.

"BATHING WIDOWS"
Atlantic City.—Two demure "bathing widows" in mourning costume for beach wear have created the latest sensation here. They are pretty blondes and wear the regulation crepe vels of black, pinned back from the sides of their black, tight-fitting bathing caps. Both wore black bathing suits, black silk hose and black bathing pumps. No, they don't go into the water but they knock 'em dead on the sandy beach.

London.—The king has sanctioned the Jersey Franchise Bill granting the vote to men over 20 and women over 35. Women over 20 may vote at municipal elections.

Revised Atlas of the New World

An eight-page atlas, printed in four colors, and containing the territory changes, with the boundaries revised according to the terms of the Peace Treaty and the subsequent decisions of the Supreme Council. Your boy or girl who is attending school will tell you that the old geographies and text books have been rendered practically useless. What we aim to do is give them something that will bring their books right up to the minute. This insert can be pasted in the back of the old book.

Educators Think of This Feature

Peter A. Mortenson, Superintendent of Schools, City of Chicago, Says:

I congratulate you on securing for the readers of The Sunday Herald and Examiner another Atlas covering the historical and geographical work in the schools. Just at this time the changes and statistical information will be of great value to teachers and pupils. The convenient arrangement which makes it possible to place the supplement in the back of a geography will be appreciated.

William J. Tobin, Superintendent of Schools, Cook County, Ill., Says:

I am advised that The Chicago Herald and Examiner will issue with its Sunday paper, September 14, a supplement containing a new world atlas.

This atlas will show all changes in the territorial boundaries of the nations of the world, as provided for in the Peace Treaty. It has been designed especially to meet the needs of schools, is of a size which can readily be pasted into the backs of geographies, and contains much historical data concerning the geographical and economic changes wrought by the war.

Inasmuch as no new geographical texts with fully revised maps are obtainable at present, I feel that such an atlas can be used to advantage by students of history and geography, pending the publication of revised texts. Furthermore, as it is part of the regular Sunday issue of The Herald and Examiner, its cost is negligible to any who may care to secure copies for themselves.

State and County School Heads, as well as hundreds of school teachers, have written their unqualified endorsement of this project to the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

In Order That You Do Not Miss the Free Feature with The Chicago Herald and Examiner, Sunday, Sept. 14th, We Suggest You Order Your Copy of the Paper From Your Local Newdealer Whose Name Appears Below.

ED. WINSLOW'S BALL CLUB IN ACTION FOR FIRST TIME, SUNDAY

Ed. Winslow's newly organized ball club will make its debut today, to a big crowd of fans at the fair grounds Sunday when the Durand (Ill.) Nationals will be taken on in nine rounds of combat. Hostilities will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Although the line up for the opening game is still indefinite the majority of the positions have been filled so that it looks like they have a first in store for them Sunday. Among the members of the old Janesville team who will be seen in action with the new club are: Frankie Long, quiet Miller Bond, Kakusko, Viney and Conroy.

Brown, head coach of athletics at Lake Forest college, Ill., will pitch for the city club. Manager Winslow announced today. Brown is a former member of the pitching staff of the Cincinnati Reds and being brought in on a heavy expense. Although two other pitchers will also be on hand, Brown is the man named for the heavy lifting. (Janesville) who pitched the Janes to ten straight victories, and Trotter, another Rockford star, are the other two slabs signed to be ready to relieve Brown in case things become hot.

The shortstop position is not definitely filled. A possibility exists that Fox, crack Janesville infielder, will be secured to plug this hole. E. H. Brown, last Forest City slugger, will hold down the initial sack with Bill Miller covering second and "Victor" Bond on the far corner. The outfield will be taken care of by Viney, Kakusko, and Conroy, three old Lake Shore league players.

Efforts were being made today to secure Mayor Libby of Evansville to umpire the game.

Durand is supposed to have one of the strongest teams in northern Illinois. Hartman brothers, who form their battery, have a reputation throughout that section.

SAMSON-PARKER PEN SERIES CALLED OFF?

All possibilities of playing the final and deciding game of the Parker Pen-Samson series appears to be fast fading away and it matters continue the way they are now the game will never be played and consequently the series, which stands one and one, will go undecided. Managers of the two teams have been unable to reach an agreement on a date for the game.

Manager Eggert of the Samson Tractors is willing to play the game any Saturday afternoon. Manager Robbins of the penman says it will be impossible for him to put a team on the field Saturday because weekly half-holidays for Parker employees ceased September 1. However, he has offered to play the game any Sunday, but this offer has not been agreeable to Samson officials.

Hotel Days are Over.
East Claire.—After serving continuously for 35 years as a hotel, and at one time East Claire's best, the Knier House, built in 1855 by the late Mathias Knier, has closed its doors to the public as a hotel and is being remodeled into four store fronts and will soon blossom out into stores and offices. The building stands diagonally across the street from the site of East Claire's new $350,000 hotel, the foundation of which is now going up.

BRINGING UP FATHER

All Pitchers Look Alike to Babe The Greatest Slugger in History

By N. E. BROWN.

"The greatest slugger baseball ever has known."

The title goes to Babe Ruth without any strings.

Dan Brouthers was king in his day.

Buck Freeman smashed his way to fame with twenty-five home runs one season in the American league.

Nap Lajoie came along and his keen eye and amazing grace at bat earned him the title of "king of hitters."

Cobb is without a doubt the most consistent batter the game boasts. Year in and year out he plays through the entire campaign and contributes a steady run of singles at a clip well over .300.

But they all fade when hitting is discussed in terms of slams.

As a lumberjack of baseball, a heart-breaker of pitchers, a game wrecker, a horse-shoe-murdering slugger, the crown goes to Babe.

Ruth has broken the American league record for hitting home runs still to go, has a chance to smash all existing professional home run records.

Clark Griffith summed up the situation when he said that Babe Ruth played in the olden times, every hit he made would have been a homer and Freeman's record would have been as nothing.

Freeman himself lauds Ruth's terrific hitting.

Hitting is Babe's Passion.

Hitting, to Ty Cobb, is a science. He has studied it for years.

Hitting, to Nap Lajoie, was an art. He was master of that art.

Hitting, to the host of other men who have placed their names high in the realm of swat, has been a part of their business—their stock in trade.

But to Babe Ruth:

Hitting is a passion—his life.

Ruth can pitch. He has won eight games for the Red Sox in the box this year. He has proved a pitching hero in the world series. No one doubts his box ability. But that interests him not.

He can steal a base—although he isn't speedy. He has pilfered seven or eight this year.

He can play the outfield well. He's willing to do it, too.

But the only thing that Ruth really cares about is hitting.

And look at his record for this season again.

Recent figures showed he had made close to 120 hits—while collecting twenty-six home runs. In other words, every fourth time he stepped to the plate he slammed out a home run.

Cobb, Jackson, Sisler, Vesach and the other leaders in the batting lists, have piled up forty or fifty more hits in about the same number of games.

Ruth has broken into over 100 contests. But in total bases hit Ruth is beyond them all.

That Ruth is the most feared pitcher in baseball today is shown by the fact that he has drawn over 100 passes this season. Ernest Lanning, one of the game's greatest statisticians, estimates that seventy or eighty of these passes were intentional ones—given Ruth because the pitcher or manager, or both, feared he would take just one little four-base swing at the ball. Despite this great list of passes Ruth has piled up over 120 hits this season, an average of over one hit a game.

What Babe Can Hit.

What kind of pitching does he like best?

My hunch is—the kind that comes near enough to the plate for him to reach with a bat. For the records show that he has slammed the offerings of twenty-one different pitchers for circuit drives. The list includes one or more pitcher from every club in the league.

True, some of the best pitchers have got by without being picked for a homer, but this means little. Take, for instance, the case of Stan Coveleski. The remark that he's one of the steadiest in the game to-

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

Babe Ruth, the home run monarch of the Boston Red Sox, is the hardest hitter that ever strode the diamond, in the opinion of Clark Griffith, said recently that Babe Ruth was the greatest player of the old ball killers would simply have to stand aside and make way for a man who never knew in equal in cutting at a baseball. And Griffith says that the game will be played for many a moon before the equal of the Boston boy is found.

"They can talk of their slugging in the old days and all of that," said Griffith, in a general fanning bee, "but they never had a Babe Ruth. Buck Freeman's record was made in a park where one could kick the ball over the fence. The fields of today are bigger and better than the old ones. Why, say, if that big mauler was in the old lots he would have 100 home runs by this time. The long fliers that are caught on Ruth would have been homers in the old days."

"There is the field in Boston, for example. Fenway park is far bigger than the old time fields. Coniskey park is bigger, our grounds down home are bigger, but Babe gets his homers just the same. If he were playing in St. Louis all year, or for half the year, he would make a record that would cause the world to gasp. I'll bet that he would make 50 home runs in St. Louis. I've been and won't start a riot. And yet he has passed Babe Ruth five times.

When Ruth started to hit home runs last season somebody figured out that this short right field or short left field or the general landscape helped him. This year Babe has slammed out homers in every park in the circuit. The only conditions he needs are a bat, a ball, a pitcher and a diamond.

Word comes from Los Angeles that Snowy Baker, the Australian boxing promoter, is gradually dropping out of the boxing game and going into the moving picture business.

Last spring Baker visited several Los Angeles studios for the purpose of making himself familiar with the way in which the films are produced. Later Mrs. Baker inspected the coast studios, and she is now on her way to Australia. With her is a moving picture director, a camera man and several performers. It is thought that it will not be long before the promoter will be directing and producing moving pictures in the Antipodes.

Baker, however, will retain his financial interests in the stadiums at Sydney and other Australian cities.

Pal Moore, the Memphis batter, who recently lost to Jimmie White in England, is a great favorite in Europe and his services are in demand. The American is arranging to meet Eugene Criqui and Charles Ledoux, two famous French batters, next month in Paris for a purse of 75,000 francs. According to Nat Lewis, who looks after the American's ring affairs, Crude has refused an offer of $25,000 to meet Moore again in England.

Cincinnati paid $10,000 and gave Manuel Cueto to boot for Charley See, but so far we haven't seen much of See, who was hailed as a couple of Ty Cobbs before he arrived.

30 MEN RESPOND TO COACH LEWIS' FIRST CALL FOR FOOTBALL

First call for football candidates issued by Coach Wilfrid C. Lewis at the close of school yesterday afternoon, brought out 30 men, among whom were included several old-timers and a number of new men who give promise of developing into real grid lights. It was easily the largest turn-out for football in the past five years and is believed to show an increasing interest in game among high school students.

The initial practice of the year, scheduled to be held under the direction of Coach Lewis at the Fourth ward park from 4:30 to 6 o'clock this afternoon. A dummy has been hung there. Tackling of this and falling on the ball will make up the first work-out. Uniforms were to be issued candidates this afternoon, although the amount of old material on hand for the 1931 squad is smaller than usual. Coach Lewis sees a possibility of turning out a team but, speedily eleven, capable of whipping the best this section has to offer. Only five veterans are back in school this year—Capt. Powers, Black, Garvin, Newman and Kober. This quintet will form the nucleus around which Coach Lewis expects to develop a winning aggregation.

Chicago Review.
Chicago, Sept. 11.—Sharply lower prices in the corn market today resulted largely from the strike ultimatum issued by the steel workers. Prices were also bearishly affected by a new break in the live stock market. The connection between the two markets was dropping out of the American market. Opening corn prices, which ranged from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4, lower, with September 1.55 1/2 and December 1.52 1/2, were followed by a decided additional setback.

On a very busy day with corn. After opening from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4, the market continued to decline. Provisions were depressed by the downturn in the value of hogs and cattle.

Liquidation by holders carried the September delivery down to 1 1/2, the lowest level yet this season. Prices closed nervous, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, lower, with September 1.55 1/2 and December 1.52 1/2.

Railroad News

D. P. Davey, who resigned about two weeks ago as yardmaster for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad has again taken up his duties as head of the local yard. Mr. Davey contemplated taking his old position as conductor but the call of the yards was too strong.

He was appointed yardmaster about four years ago and since that time the business has steadily increased. After a two weeks' vacation he returned to work on Wednesday.

Superintendent J. A. MacDonald of the Mineral Point division has returned to Madison after a short business trip over the division.

Day Caller Claude Navack has returned after an extensive trip through Minnesota. He spent two days at the Minnesota state fair.

Local railroad men claim that all records for building bridges were shattered last Sunday when a crew of 150 men worked on the bridge.

Building department erected a bridge east of Janesville in less than 10 hours.

Brinkman "Hops" Carey who has been sojourning in Brookhead for the past 14 months is spending a few days in Janesville on a quiet hunt for a vacant house. He said he expected to return here to make his home as soon as he located a place to live.

Fewer circuses and carnivals have been handled over the local lines this year than ever before. Only one big circus has been through Janesville this year.

Shop in the Gazette before you shop in the stores.

Plans for the year will be discussed.
